Pickens County Library System Welcomes New Director, Brian Morrison

The Pickens County Library System (PCLS) is proud to announce and welcome Brian Morrison as the new Library Director. Brian will oversee the headquarters library located in Easley, as well as the three community branches located in Central-Clemson, Pickens, and Liberty. A distinguished librarian, Brian joins PCLS from the Greenville County Library System (GCLS) where he spent nearly nine years working in various management positions. Most recently, he served for five years as that system's Discovery Services Manager, overseeing the Reference Department, South Carolina Room, Interlibrary Loan service, and system-wide computer training and workforce development initiatives. During his time in that position, he led the implementation of several new services and projects, such as SC Codes Greenville, a grant-funded program that combined online learning, weekly in-person meetings, and mentorship support to provide free, basic computer programming training to adults. Prior to that, he served as a Branch Manager at various library locations in the Greenville and Anderson County Library (ACL) Systems, and held several positions in the ACL Reference Department and South Carolina Room.

Brian holds a Bachelor of Arts in English from Clemson University and a Master of Library and Information Science from the University of South Carolina. While originally from Westminster, SC, he currently resides in Mauldin with his wife, Rose, and their two children. He looks forward to, "delivering outstanding library service that makes a substantial, positive impact on our community in Pickens County".

The Pickens County Library System's Board of Trustees states, "We are excited to welcome Brian to the PCLS as our new Director. His background and experience will be a tremendous asset as we continue to foster and improve the library experience for our patrons and community".
